Foreword

As Wise County celebrates its 100th birthday this year, we, the Seniors of J. J. Kelly High School, present to you this 1956 Arrowhead celebrating its 18th birthday.

In the pages of this book we attempt to relate the progress our school has made in the field of education over a period of approximately 50 years.

Dedication

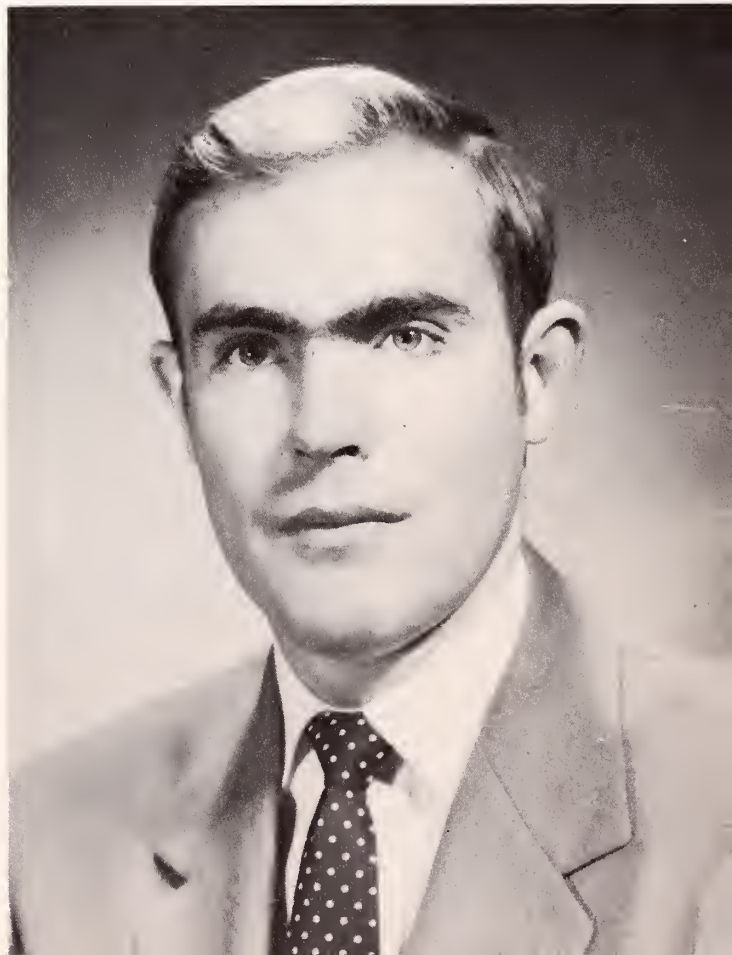

MRS. FRANCES GILLEY

We, the Arrowhead Staff dedicate the 1956 Arrowhead to Mrs. Frances Gilley who not only has dedicated her efforts and time to the development of better student leaders but whose guidance and understanding we shall never forget.

MR. STERLING GILLIAM

We also dedicate the 1956 Arrowhead to Mr. Sterling Gilliam whose efforts have made our Senior year a more interesting and enjoyable one and whose friendship and service are deeply appreciated.

Our teaching staff has grown from two elementary teachers and two high school teachers in the year 1899 to thirty in 1956 with an assistant principal and a full-time secretary.

Since 1904, when our school was Gladeville College with C. Y. Chapman as President, there have been 13 presidents and principals. Mr. L. F. Addington became principal in 1930.

MR. L. F. ADDINGTON

Mr. Addington was born in Scott County. After completing high school at Midway and Gate City, he went to Emory and Henry College and did graduate work at University of Virginia.

After college, Mr. Addington taught his first school at Clinchport, Virginia; his second at Lakeworth, Florida, and then came to Wise County in 1924, where he was principal at Pound school. Here he taught the third grade with only two pupils. On March 1, 1930 he came to Wise as Principal. Mr. Addington has taught summer schools at Radford College and Emory and Henry College.

In addition to his school activities, his short stories have been published in Esquire, American Prefaces, Pageant, Jack & Jill, and many juvenile and church magazines. This year he wrote The Story of Wise County and became Executive Director of the Wise County Centennial.

Distributive Education

The first graduating class in 1905, while the school was Gladeville College, consisted of two graduates. At this time the school offered eight subjects, including such subjects as Greek, Astronomy, and Political Economy.

In this session of 1955-56, 40 courses are offered from which a pupil may choose either of three courses of study -- College, for those who plan to enter college upon graduation from high school; Business, for those who take Vocational Office Training or Distributive Education and plan to go directly into the business field upon graduation from high school; General, for those who wish to receive their diploma with no specialized training.

The following is a partial list containing the number of graduates and the valedictorian since 1922:

	Number of Graduates	Valedictorian
1922	12	No record
1925	6	No record
1926	8	Clay Roberson

We have two school publications. The Arrowhead, our yearbook, was first published in 1938. The first edition of the school paper came out in 1926. At that time it was called the Wise Owl and in 1936 it was changed to the Arrow.

In 1930 our first band was organized with 20 members and today we have a marching band of 66 members.

Commercial work was introduced into the school curriculum in 1935.

The Student Council which stresses student participation in government is composed of four main officers and one member from each home room. It was organized approximately in 1938 with Mr. Eugene Willis as sponsor and Lawrence Gilliam as president.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Future Homemakers of America, an organization which has taken the place of Home Economics clubs in high schools throughout the United States was revived at J. J. Kelly High School this year after 12 years of lying dormant. Under the leadership of Mrs. Doris Vicars and Mrs. Leta Taylor, the first meeting was held on September 15 with 80 members enrolled. Meetings have been of a varied nature including educational, social, and business.

Coach, W. G. Bays and assistant, Bernard Davis, guided the Indians to another successful season by sharing the honors of Co-Championship with 8 wins and one tie.

The Indians opened the season with a rout 41-0 victory over arch-rivals Norton Black Raiders.

The Indians showed their superior ability by overcoming Pennington 33 to 13.

Kelly Indians then disposed of Pound by a score of 27 to 7.

In one of the best games of the season Wise defeated Appalachia 14 to 7.

The Indians took inexperienced Ervington 44-0.

In a down pour of rain the Indians splashed to a 26 to 7 victory over Big Stone Gap.

The Indians went on a scoring spree with a 60 to 6 over St. Paul.

In the battle to determine the championship Wise and Clintwood fought to a scoreless tie.

In the final contest Wise came romping back against Coeburn Blue Knights to scalp them 40 to 12.

St. Paul loses ground.
